What is Veer Towers?

Unlike CityCenter's other hotels, you won't have to check out of Veer Towers. The pair of 37-story residential buildings each house 335 residences, ranging in size from studios to penthouses with up to 3,300 square feet of space. No ordinary condo complex, Veer Towers residents can take advantage of a rooftop infinity-edge pool, sun deck, hot tub and bar, all with views of the Strip. Inside, rooms are modern and streamlined, just like the exterior of the leaning glass towers. Designer Francisco Gonzalez-Pulido designed Veer's lobbies and public spaces to include floor-to-ceiling windows, perfect for viewing commissioned works by artist Richard Long.

Designed by Helmut Jahn, Veer Towers is a pair of arresting residential icons in the hub of CityCenter. With approximately 335 residences each in two 37-story glass towers, Veer soars above the city and seems to dance with a rhythm all its own. Veer showcases "European-style" residences as personal, private havens featuring modern kitchens, living and dining areas, spacious and spa-styled bathrooms and floor-to-ceiling windows.
